Bio

Los Cadetes de Linares were a Mexican Norteño band who were especially famous for their corridos, traditional ballad-style songs about social causes, criminals or heroes in the northern parts of Mexico. They appeared in various classic Mexican films and made many appearances on nationally syndicated programs in Mexico and the United States. The band was formed in 1960 in Linares, Nuevo León by Homero Guerrero. He began playing a bajo sexto, singing at family parties, festivals, schools and in the main square of Linares. In 1961 Guerrero added an accordionist, Adan Moreno. In 1967 Moreno left the band due to disagreements with the group. In 1968 Samuel Zapata became the group's second accordionist. Homero and Samuel made their first recordings for Discos del Valle, a record company from Houston, Texas. Zapata left the group for family reasons in 1968. In late 1968 Candelario Villareal joined as the third accordionist for the band. The band subsequently added Lupe Tijerina. Guerrero and Tijerina made a recording in 1974 with of corrido composed by Lupe Tijerina called "Los Dos Amigos". The band subsequently began touring across Mexico and the southwestern United States, as well as places such as Chicago and Los Angeles with large Mexican. With the addition of Lupe Tijerina's style, the band began to find chart success. On February 19, 1982, Guerrero died in a car accident on the road from Monterrey to Reynosa. His funeral was attended by thousands of people. After Guerrero's death, Rosendo Cantu took his place in the group. Cantu and Tijerina played sold out stadiums and appeared on Siempre en Domingo and the Johnny Canales Show. The band broke up later on, but Cantu, seeing that Los Cadetes de Linares's contract had ended with Ramex Records, applied and bought the legal rights to perform as the authentic Cadetes de Linares, instead of Tijerina. Cantu and Tijerina both formed their own bands. The label later sold the trademark to Zamic Records of Houston, Texas. Many bands subsequently formed with the name "Cadetes de Linares", to Tijerina's irritation. Tijerina died from respiratory problems shortly after performing the opening song at a concert in Ciudad Fernández, San Luis Potosí on July 5, 2016.

FUN FACT: The idea of the name "Cadetes" came from the fact that, as a child, Guerrero's dream was to attend a military academy. However, because of his family's financial problems, he decided to devote himself to music.

The Four Seasons are an American rock band that became internationally successful in the 1960s and 1970s, with Frankie Valli as the lead singer. The Four Seasons were one of only two American bands (the other being the Beach Boys) to enjoy substantial chart success before, during, and after the British Invasion. After leaving Philips, the Four Seasons recorded a one-off single for the Warner Bros. label in England. Following that single, the band signed to Motown.

When the Four Seasons mounted a major comeback in 1975, Valli's name was no longer up front. This seems to have been because Valli had also made a comeback as a solo singer. Known for his unusually powerful falsetto voice, Valli has scored 29 Top 40 hits with The Four Seasons and nine Top 40 hits as a solo artist. By 1980, there was a reunion, and the group was back to Frankie Valli & the Four Seasons.

From 1962 to 1978, Frankie Valli and the Four Seasons sold more than 100 million records.

During the decade, they charted 39 singles and 21 albums on the Billboard pop charts, making them one of the most successful recording acts of the era.

The band's original line-up was inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 1990, and joined the Vocal Group Hall of Fame in 1999. They are one of the best-selling musical groups of all time.

The success of the Tony-winning musical Jersey Boys, which chronicles the life and times of Frankie and his legendary group, such classic songs as “Big Girls Don’t Cry,” “Walk Like a Man,” “Rag Doll,” and “Can’t Take My Eyes Off You”.

There’s something about Frankie’s music that makes young people of every generation want to get up and dance.

Fun Fact: Frankie was mentored by the singer "Texas" Jean Valli when he was a young boy. As a tribute to his mentor, he adopted the last name “Valli” when he embarked on a singing career.

Los Rieleros Del Norte ("The Railers of the North") are a Mexican three-time Grammy-nominated Norteño-Sax band from Ojinaga, Chihuahua, Mexico and based in El Paso, Texas, United States. Rieleros del Norte use both saxophone and accordion in their music, creating a dual-instrument hybrid. Los Rieleros del Norte have recorded many albums over the years.

The actual founder of the band and its name is subject to controversy.

Many fans have assumed that it was bassist Manalo Morales, but leader Daniel Esquivel and Manolo Morales himself reportedly denied this in a morning radio show that Manuel "Meño" Lujan of Pecos is the original founder who named the group.

Lujan has maintained a low profile on this issue, the others have proceeded in court to establish control over the band. Esquivel consolidated his control of the band both the United States and Mexico. Esquivel later stated in a press conference that he was willing to work with Morales and his crew and even help them to record an album of their own material, as long as they use a different name for their group. So far, there is no indication that this has happened.

The group has a big following on instagram.

Fun Fact: The band's name, "Los Rieleros", is based on work that some members did on the railroads of Pecos, Texas.
